Archie Buft Photographs the Leaders in the Grim Old Senate.

Voorhees' Mantle has Fallen Upon the Shoulders of Senator Jones, of Arkansas.

[Special to the Evening Post.]

Washington, May 31.—The tariff bill seems to be on the three-quarter stretch at last. It has had pretty hard running, for the track up to this point has been very muddy. The sugar schedule will be finished by the middle of next week at the farthest, and then paragraph after paragraph will be closed with a rapidity which the Senate is noted for in passing appropriation bills.

Hill will make a bluster about free raw materials, and the Republicans will probably vote with him after voting for a bounty on sugar. The schedule, as it now stands, will pass the Senate, however, but it is exceedingly doubtful whether or not it will find safe anchor in the conference.

The question of the tariff is now losing part of its interest, but strange to say, the interest which surrounds the leaders of this great movement is increasing.

It is rather curious, the number of men who have come to the front during this debate. The most remarkable incident is that of Senator Jones, of Arkansas. He has recently supplanted Senator Voorhees in importance on the Finance Committee. It has been a voluntary retirement of the tall sycamore of the Wabash, however. The remembrance of the trying experience of the extra session was too fresh in his memory for him to enter upon another prolonged and tedious battle. He is one of the most striking figures on the floor, however, and his presence seems to add strength to the cause of tariff reform.

It is getting old, and shows this advancing years. He has reached the stage when he is willing to remain in the council tents and go forth with the army to battle. The victory he won in the extra session would cover his closing years with glory, from a parliamentary standpoint, even should he not take any other prominent part in national legislation. He has certainly lowered his lance for this Congress at least and thrown his mantle upon Jones, of Arkansas.

When setting in his Senate seat he has the appearance of a crouching lion and his torments have failed utterly so far to rouse him from the lethargy in which he seems to have fallen. He sits quietly hour after hour, his head bowed down upon his breast, his face impassive and absolutely without expression; he knows that he must rest and rest fully if he intends to live. The Republicans have tried to goad him into the open, but he glances at them in a half sleepy, vacant manner and resumes his pose, which is that of a complete divorce from activity.

The most interesting character of the fight is Harris, of Tennessee; he is the ringmaster who cracks the whip and asks the questions and shifts the scene; all of his life has been spent in party warfare, and he knows how to meet steel with steel; he is the acknowledged parliamentarian of the Senate, and the combined forces of the Republicans can not shake him. He is absolutely hideous, and has not the redeeming feature of a kindly expression.

Yet there is not a Senator, Democrat or Republican, who does not love him personally; nor is there any other Senator upon the floor from whom they would receive their rebuffs, satire or lectures as they do from Harris; Hoar loves dearly to make him mad, and succeeds.

Harris speaks with great directness and vigor of language; he has a way of pointing his long forefinger at the face of the man to whom he is talking and after scoring him soundly dismisses him with a gesture of disgust and then "moves to lay the amendment on the table."

Harris in reality lays down the law for the Senate; he is positive and d d matic to the last degree, rides the shod over every one that comes in his way, friend or foe, and in case of cially equipped for his fight in close quarters. When Harris rises the din of the fray is heard, and the audience look out for blood spots on the turf, hasn't a particle of honor and fails to understand why either the Senate and galleries should laugh when he courteously dismisses Senator Hoar as an antagonist not worthy of his steel.

When he rises to make a motion his words seem to fall to the ground, of their own weight. It is said that Jove in Olympus could not pronounce the fate of the world more impressively than Senator Harris makes a motion in the tariff fight.

These wrangles represent the daily show of the Senate, and it is for these that the galleries are crowded at 11 o'clock every day. One of these sham battles was taking place on the floor the day that Senator Jarvis was sworn into the Senate; he sat there eagerly drinking in every word; his expression had been noted by the press gallery, especially as something unusual in the Senate, but no one knew how to describe it until Angus McSweeney, a clever Scotchman and correspondent of the Baltimore Sun said:

"Boys, he thinks it is all real." The gallery became uproarious and long suffering. Palmer, of Illinois, shook his head that the Vice President did not wrap for order. Senator Vest represents the reserve corps on the Democratic side, as Chandler does on the Republican. When the opposition charges too heavily upon Jones and Harris Vest throws himself into the breach and helps to hold the bridge. He is very plausible and though he snarls like a dog, whines like a cat, he is one of the heavy guns of the fight. When the noise is loudest then you will hear the screech of Vest above all his fellows, reaching out for fame and calling loudly for applause. Jones does the heavy thing part, the part assigned him by Voorhees, when Voorhees returned from the dramatic personae of this drama. It would seem that Senator McPherson would have taken this role, but from the inception of the fight it was clearly evident that no Eastern man could lead it. They were not to be relied upon sufficiently for the work to be done, so it fell to Jones, and the opposition though they had a cinch, he is a very thoroughly equipped for handling men and great matters, and his physique is proof against fatigue.

It is impossible to entrain him, for when he is unable to answer he says so with promptness. He is good natured and even Chandler cannot provoke him to wrath. Just now he is the flower from which all bees expect to sip their honey. He has the say as to whether an amendment shall be adopted or not, and manages as exclusively this part of the line as Harris does the parliamentary strategic part of the performance.

Chandler is his next element. He is a free lance. He reminds one of the bug who wanted to be a rhinoceros and wear an ivory tusk pick on his nose, but unable to gratify this ambition, he is content to remain a humble bee or a June bug and buzz and butt his head against the wall. He is a gad fly on the Democratic and a wasp within his own party.

He loves to fear Democratic shams to tatters and fling their unsightly rags to the breeze. He is quick to appreciate humor, and if the laugh is on the other side he brings wit and satire to his aid. He has no respect for facts or figures. Sarcasm and wit are his hand-maidens and his humor is the only thing which makes his speeches palatable. Senator Hoar is a cherubic old soul—yet hiding behind his smiling countenance the gall and wormwood of a century. There is something like the Shylock about the Massachusetts Senator. He is thoroughly implacable and will never withdraw his lance because his victor wins. His words are rasping and even his voice is irritating. He does not argue half as much as he taunts the Democratic foes.

Gorman, of course, is one of the picture cards of the Senate. Whatever he does is attractive, just as a juggler is attractive. He remains silent and quiet during the first part of any fight, yet when he comes out of his hole he fore shadows the end as clearly as the ground hog fore shadows summer. He can scent the rump of a battle further than any man who is on the trail, and when once he joins the forces, it does not take him long to forge to the front.

Of course, there are a number of others who speak in a desultory sort of way, but these are the men who are really at the head of their forces. The present fight is a great fight it is one only knows how to appreciate it and it makes no difference which ox is gored. The tariff bill is certain and the country may turn from anxiety of its fate to the amusing features of the fight.

SIXTH MONUMENT.

Unveiled at Richmond—Two Million Dollars in a Pile.

Four Children at Once, Crickets in Wyoming, Corbett and Jackson to Fight in Florida.

Crickets.

Lander, Wyo., June 2.—Lander valley is threatened with destruction by invasion of the Mormon-Utah cricket. Many of the pests are 2 1/2 inches long. They devour all before them.

Four Children at One Birth.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 30.—Mrs. Samuel Raphael, of this city, has just given birth to four children, three boys and a girl. Two of the boys, however, died shortly after birth; the two living children and the mother are doing well.

Dismissed.

Henderson, Ky., June 2.—The case against Charles V. Ball, charged with the killing of his brother Ira Ball, some four years ago, was dismissed today in Circuit Court. He has been tried four times, resulting only in one conviction, which was set aside. A petition of 300 names was filed with the reasons of the Commonwealth's Attorney for dismissal.

Wholesale Suicide.

Berlin, June 2.—Carl Seeger, a master painter, with his wife and four children committed suicide by taking cyanide of potassium. All the six unfortunate persons were found dead and a paper signed by the whole family, showed that they all consented to die by poison. The cause of the wholesale suicide was the fact that Seeger was without means account of his failure to collect money due him for work done upon some new buildings.

10,000 Negroes Colonized.

San Antonio, Tex., May 31.—An extensive land deal has been made here involving two thousand acres of land lying on the Rio Grande, in the Mexican States of Coahuila and Chihuahua. The land was sold by ex-Governor Gonzalez, of Chihuahua, to the Mexican Coffee and Cattle Company. W. E. Ellis, who is interested in Mexican colonization schemes, will colonize ten thousand negroes on part of the land.

Will Fight in Florida.

New York, June 2.—Latest reports state that Jim Corbett has declined the offer of the National Sporting Club of England and that the fight with Peter Jackson will be held in America. George Walby has received a cablegram from Corbett to this effect and that he had decided to accept the $35,000 purse offered by the Jacksonville Athletic Club of Florida. He has also authorized Mr. Walby to sign the articles of agreement in his behalf and will stand by anything he does in his interests. Corbett now agrees to fight Jackson in October or November. He will return to America in July or August.

Two Millions in Cash.

Talequah, I. T., June 2.—For several weeks the United States treasury at St. Louis has been shipping large cash consignments to the treasurer of the Cherokee Nation, at this place, until tonight there is stored in Talequah $2,000,000 in cash, guarded by a hundred stalwart Indian soldiers. On Monday Treasurer Sharpe will begin the distribution of this immense sum among the Cherokees. This is a portion of the $7,000,000 paid this nation for the "Cherokee Strip," all of which goes directly to the individuals. Each man, woman and child with Cherokee blood will receive in the neighborhood of $275, and the payment to begin Monday is the first and the largest of seven that are to be made.

Confederate Monument Unveiled.

Richmond, Va., May 30.—Amid booming of cannon, firing of musketry and the shouts of assembled thousands and in dripping rain, the Confederate soldiers and sailors monument was unveiled on Libby hill here this afternoon. Battle scarred veterans, with faces bathed in tears, witnessed the falling of the cloth from the shaft erected to the sacred memory of their departed comrades.

Not since the unveiling of the Lee statue has there been such a demonstration in Richmond. This, the sixth monument erected here to the valor of Southern men, is situated so that it overlooks the entire city, looming in its majestic proportions to a height of ninety odd feet above the ground; its unveiling today was in keeping with the enthusiastic devotion of the Southern people for those who fell in the half of that which they believed was right.

ANDY JOHNSON SLAIN

The Former Bell County Terror Shot to Death At Pineville.

Pineville, Ky., June 2.—Andy Johnson, who has been notorious in Bell county for several years and who has had a record of six or more men killed, met his death tonight at the hands of a young man named Jim Horn; the duel was to death. Both are dead.

The circumstances are that horn was a spectator at a negro dance, and he started off with a woman. Andy Johnson, who was a policeman, followed him, Horn said, "No you won't" and the shooting began. Several shots were exchanged and then the spectators were called to the scene, when it was found that Johnson was dead and his opponent died thirty minutes afterwards.

"Col." Andy Johnson was a well known character in Bell county. In the early days of Pineville he was known as a terror, but of late he had been a peaceable and law abiding citizen.

NEGRO DEMOCRATS.

Call for a Meeting of the National League.

Washington, June 3.—A call has been issued for a meeting of the negro national Democratic league, at Indianapolis, beginning Tuesday, August 2. The call is signed by C. H. J. Taylor, president, the recently confirmed recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia, and H. C. C. Astwood, the rejected consul to Calais, chairman executive committee. Explicit directions are given in the call to the chairman and secretaries of the negro state Democratic leagues how to proceed with the election of two delegates from each State, so that "confusion and unpleasant wrangling" may be avoided, and it is stated that no one is to be allowed to be present except duly accredited delegates, and such other persons who, upon the presence of the negro national Democratic league.

MEEKER ON WOOL.

American Wool at Bradford.—If on the Free List a Foreign Demand.

Washington, June 2.—Mr. Claude Meeker, consul at Bradford, England, has been writing to the State Department about American wool in England. It seems that early this year large quantities of American wool were offered for sale at Bradford; this Mr. Meeker says was an unusual sum of attention and an endless sum of gossip in the market, on 'Change, and at the clubs. These wools were from Ohio and Michigan.

Mr. Meeker says that the wool merchants and manufacturers of Bradford believe that if wool is put on the free list by congress the price of American wool will revive. So firm were they in this belief and so sure were they that Democratic success and the inauguration of a Democratic President, supported by a Congress Democratic in both branches, meant the immediate passage of such a bill, that several of the Bradford wool merchants and manufacturers bought, as early as last winter, through agents, large quantities of wool in Philadelphia and Boston for future delivery.

Mormons in Europe.

The Paris Liberte says: "We are threatened with an invasion of Mormons. In fact, the approaching departure from New York is announced of a thousand disciples of Brigham Young, who are to spread themselves over France, Germany and other European countries to preach polygamy. It is not the first time that the Mormons have sought to make recruits on the old continent. Some years ago several representatives of this ridiculous sect made a fruitless expedition into Touraine, and the presence was noted in Paris of a Mormon bigwig."

It is rather in the Scandinavian countries that the polygamists of Salt Lake have hitherto seen their apostolic work crowned with success. In Denmark especially they have succeeded in making a tolerably large showing of recruits, and a friend of ours resident at Copenhagen was fairly dumfounded when one day his cook resigned her office on the ground that she had become a female Mormon. The Liberte seems to ignore the abolition of polygamy in Utah,

Natural Law in the Spiritual World.

[CONCLUDED.]

To all the far lying segments of environment with which man is unable with his multitudinous correspondence to communicate, man is dead. With the supreme segment of life's domain, which is spirituality, the purely neutral man can not correspond; to it, therefore, he is dead. And this death will not depart to be reconstituted by it until by inspiration from this supreme environment he shall be brought into correspondence. "Suppose, to make the final issue more real, we give this uttermost environment a name. Suppose we call it God. Suppose, also, we substitute a word for 'correspondence' to express more intimately the personal relation. Let us call it Communion. We can now determine accurately the spiritual relation of different sections of mankind. Those who are in communion with God live; those who are not are dead."

The fullness of life, then, depends upon the fullness of communion, or rather the fullness of communion. It is not necessary that those without communion should be monsters; they may not be wicked as to any great unbreathing guilt—they may indeed be moral—but they are spiritually dead; and as shown before, they can not grow by motion into spiritual life any more than a stone can grow into vegetable or animal life.

Furthermore, the recognition of God is not communion with God—life. Of this point Mr. Drummond is forcible. "The very confession of the Unknowable is itself the dull recognition of an Environment beyond." Recognition of God is not faith in God. Theism, which teaches that there is a God of Nature, is the indication or acknowledgment of the natural man's spiritual death; for Theism perceives that God is and that man communes not with him. Theism, as Mr. Drummond turns to point out, is the easiest religion to get and the hardest to keep. It falls into the widest polytheism of the blindest atheism. Its doctrines may be of beautifying culture, but it is not life giving.

The hidden power of morality is religion. "Nature and morality provide all for virtue." Here conscience wakes. Here kindness looms. Duty here becomes heroic; and that righteousness begins to live which alone is to live forever. What is death? "To be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace."

ETERNAL LIFE.

Since life exists through the correspondence of an organism with its environment, eternity of life demands that there shall be perfect correspondence with a perfect environment. Science demonstrates to us this truth but without any claim to have this perfect environment. To science a perfect life, like a perfect vacuum, is impossible. We must seek elsewhere; and Revelation comes to our assistance: "This is Life Eternal—that they might know Thee, the True God, and Jesus Christ, whom Thou hast sent." To know God is eternal life; eternal life consists not alone in eternal years but in divine knowledge. Eternal Life is thus far above eternal existence that it contains the culmination of all evolution—knowledge. The eternal years of Eternal Life are not merely eternal years; they are the eternal years of God; inasmuch as Eternal Death the eternal years not of God.

To know this is communication with God, involving the fullest development of man's highest complexity. Science demands the fulfillment of two conditions in order to the possession of this eternal life of which she gives the definition: first, the establishment of communication between a perfect organism and environment; second, the sustaining of this communication. The first is accomplished by the Incarnation and Revelation whereby Christ condescendingly informed us of His Environment. "I am come that they might have Life. The second is a natural result of life—impairment. Waking with God how may a soul miss becoming pure? This new environment and indwelling life have shown themselves able to bridge the gulf and to "possess the supernatural virtues of the Resurrection and the Life."

God is the eternal Environment; he establishes a correspondence with a soul whereby that soul becomes spiritual. This correspondence with an eternal author is eternal. Other environments pass away, but God is unchangeable. Herein is eternal life, scientifically established. The environments of lower, and less complex animals, is limited and transient, and the physical environment of man departs. But the eternity of this spiritual life is established.

Dr. Willford Hall has argued the immortality of the soul from the fact of its substantiality as a force and its consequent indestructibility. But he acknowledges that by his reasoning immortality would be secured to the lower animals, as believed John Wesley and Joseph Cook, were it not that they are constitutionally incapable of anticipatory thoughts regarding the future. Were eternal life secureable by perfect correspondence alone, as it seems, Mr. Herbert Spencer taught, lower animals might indeed be supposed to be capable of immortality. But there must be a perfect environment.

The world and its lusts—all of the terrestrial environments—pass away, but the spiritual stands fast. Hampered by the earthly, the spiritual must be freed from the earthly, that it may reach higher evolution. Therefore, Mors janna vitae est. "The dust shall return to the earth as it was, and the spirit unto the God who gave it."

Let us continue further, though we shall leave Mr. Drummond and give the substance of teaching from Mr. Spurgeon, found in 1st Cor. 15th chap. tells us of the mystery of the resurrection. The dust shall indeed "return to the earth as it was," but on the dread day of resurrection, corruption shall arise and put on incorruption. The corrupt elements will arise; the bodies of the dead will burst the elements of the grave and leap the ocean abysses, and will make a reunion with the awaiting souls. Thus the redeemed souls, clad upon with glorified bodies, will sweep into peace. When friends die who are known to be saved, sorrow is felt not on account of their redeemed souls, it is because of their lost bodies. We yearn for the presence and companionship of the physical selves. The Saviour respects this feeling, and he has promised that these removed bodies shall arise in glorification to enter heaven.

This is the infinity of condescension, the consummation of life, the victory over death.

A. RICHLY.

A Bachelor Woman's Theory About Good Wives.

The best wife is the woman who has found the right husband, a husband who understands her. A man will have the best wife when he rates that wife as queen among women. Or all women she should always be to him the dearest. This sort of man will not only praise the dishes made by his wife, but still more by her.

He will listen attentively to all Mrs. Canine's talk about the rights of woman and the tyranny of man, and be a real good, quiet, harmless Mr. Cuddle. He will allow his life-companion a bank-account, and will exact no itemized bill at the end of the month. Above all, he will pay the Easter bonnet bill without a word never bring a friend to dinner without first telephoning home,—in short, he will comprehend that the woman who makes the best wife is the woman whom, by his indulgence of her ways and whims, he makes the best wife. So, after all, good husbands have the most to do with making good wives.

As for the wife, I should say she should be like a sunbeam, always warm, bright, sympathetic. She must have the faculty of smiling at misfortunes, of telling interesting stories, and of never becoming tiresome. She must love children, and "chum" with the family. The best wife will be proud of her husband. The moment she becomes vain and courts admiration of other men, that moment she loses her power over her husband.

Then again, love is destroyed more by trivial annoyances than real grievances. A woman with a "cranky" nature must have a husband who understands her, or in her case marriage will surely be a failure. Above all, the best wife will recognize the husband as the head of the household, and will allow him to earn the living for both; for that which, in respect to the purse, is mislabeled "independence" between man and wife, makes many a marriage a hell on earth.—From "Women Who Make the Best Wives;" Demorest's Magazine for June.

Grand Rivers Sold.

The commissioneer this morning reported to the United States court the sale of the furnaces and lands of the Grand Rivers Company on May 26 at Grand Rivers, Livingston county. The property consisted of the plant at Grand Rivers, and 15,000 acres of land in Livingston, Hopkins and Lexington counties. It had been appraised at $115,000, but when sold at auction brought only $77,000, $15,000 cash and the balance in notes. Aretas Blood, trustee, was the purchaser; the report lies over twenty days for exceptions.—Louisville Post.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. ARNOLD, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"The use of 'Castoria' is so universal and its merits so well known that it seems a work of supererogation to endorse it. Few are the intelligent families who do not keep Castoria within easy reach." EDWIN F. PARSONS, M. D., 12th Street and 7th Ave., New York City.

DO YOU WANT Harvesting Machines? The Walter A. Wood Machines LEAD THE WORLD.

The Walter A. Wood mowers need no introduction to the farmers of the world. Their ever increasing production, and the hundreds of thousands of them in use to-day, attest their superiority and popularity. They have become as staple an article as a barrel of flour, and are used all over the known world.

The tubular steel mower is the most modern machine made. It combines all those features of excellence in design, construction and operation, the lightest draft of any mower, and has more improvements.

The Single Apron Binder Has No Superior

It is of light draft, and with its open-rear has unlimited capacity for tal g rain, and will cut, elevate, bind and discharge smooth corn—a most severe test on capacity and strength. The heads of the grain are not bent back in their passage to the binder, and much grain is thereby saved which would otherwise be lost through shelling. The saving of the grain is an important matter to the farmer and should receive serious consideration. The difficulty of selling other makes of machines at all in most localities, so long as a Walter A. Wood can be had, has provoked attacks by competitors which are entirely groundless; the machine has reached practical perfection and we are building it season after season without changes, for none are needed.

J. W. JOHNSON, Agent, Marion, Ky. Don't fail to see him if you want a machine.

There is at least one good Democrat still doing business in the United States Senate. His name is Mills, and for years he has breathed the Democratic atmosphere of our neighbor, Livingston county.

A business mass meeting was held in New York Friday to protest against the income tax. The millionaire of New York wants the poor consumers of the country to pay as much toward supporting the Federal Government as he does, and he secures his wants in a high tariff law, which taxes that which is consumed while the millions laid away go untouched by the Federal tax collector.

Our neighbor, the Monitor, seems bent upon "pouring the vials of its wrath" upon John A. Sullinger. The maledictions called down on his head and hurled like Jove's mighty thunderbolts, even at his character, would doubtless have alarmed an enthusiastic Crusader of the fourteenth century, but they do not appear to disturb the usual poise of an honest, sturdy, plain boy like John Sullinger, reared in an honest, humble home. The truth is, John can easily stem the current of these invectives, remembering that "Curses are like young chickens, and still come home to roost."

Our philosophy is, "bless them that curse you," and being that, we would do the heavy guns—the artillery force of our neighbor—good, by advising them to spike their white alder guns lest people in their own camp be pelted with their dogwood buds. In the meantime, if the guns aforesaid are really spiked and the immediate danger of bloodshed is thereby delayed, watch for the honest face of John A. Sullinger in the illustrated edition of the Press about July 1.

We have been inclined to think that the Benton Tribune would do the fair thing in the congressional race, and while our faith in that direction is a little weaker than it was a few weeks ago, we are still bent on believing that it would not do an honest, deserving, capable Democrat an injustice, yet we find the Tribune charging John Hendricks with being absent from the state senate, while a member of that body, "50 days out of 182, and fails to vote 370 times during so short a time." In the first place John Hendricks was not absent 50 days, and in the second place, during that session it was found necessary for the peace and general welfare of the state to send a committee to investigate the conduct of a number of counties, where so much lawlessness had brought disgrace upon the name of the State. To do this work a man skilled in the law, fearless and earnest in the discharge of duty was necessary. John Hendricks was chosen and he went to that district and for thirty-five days worked incessantly, examining over forty witnesses, compiling over five hundred pages of testimony; he returned and made his report to the legislative body which trusted and charged him with the important mission. The Legislature passed laws as suggested by his committee and time has proven the wisdom of the course marked out in that report. Now we find the Tribune telling the people that Hendricks failed to be at his post of duty those 35 days. While the "Press, Murray Ledger, Clinton Democrat, Bardwell Star and the Smithland News" are "catching on," will the Benton Tribune, Paducah Standard and Paducah News kindly revise their arithmetic and modify their statements so that even so noisy an affair as a "bandwagon" may be kept in the straight and narrow way. Jim, "do you catch on?"

Local politics can do more first class work for his satanic majesty, commonly called the devil, in one summer than an evangelist can do for the meek and lowly Nazarene in a year. Marion has been in a brotherly mood and a neighborly spirit for some weeks, and the people are really happier and better, but step in about three months hence, when religion is put aside and the real weighty affairs of political life are being managed, and you will find about as much ill feelings as there are now good feelings and actions.

Providence precinct, Webster county, has the same incubus, in the shape of a railroad tax, hanging over it that a portion of Union county has. The Webster Advocate says:

"Judge Hall has been served with a writ of mandamus to appear before the Federal court at Owensboro on the 7th instant and show cause why he should not proceed to make the levy for the collection of the railroad tax in the Providence magisterial district."

"The present judgment amounts to a little more than $5,000, but the entire amount is nearly $100,000."

"We sincerely hope the matter may be settled without trouble, or any further cost to the people."

The "prom-gang" are having a good time at Frankfort.

CROOKED CREEK CHURCH.

Something of the History of the Organization.

Crooked Creek Baptist church was organized in 1835, with J. W. Mansfield as pastor and H. Belt church clerk. Joel E. Grace was called to the care of the church in 1836, and served as pastor until the year 1840 and received 7 members.

Clairborn Wilson was pastor in 1840. Abel Teger was called to the care of the church in 1841 and received six members.

Willis Champion was called to the care of the church in 1842 and was also pastor in 1843, receiving one member.

Clairborn Wilson was again called in 1844, and served as pastor until 1849, when he died.

Joel E. Grace was again called in 1849 and served until 1853, receiving five members.

T. B. Rushing was called in 1853, serving four years and received 17 members.

Pastor in 1857 unknown.

W. A. McChesney served as pastor 5 years, beginning in 1858, and received 12 members.

Willis Champion was again called in 1863. In 1864 no pastor reported.

J. Murray was called in 1865 and also served in 1866, and received 24 members.

C. Hodge was called in 1867, and served until 1870, and received 41 members.

I. McMurry was again called in 1870 and served 3 more years, receiving 51 members in all.

M. H. Uley was called in 1873 and served until 1876, and received 58 members.

E. B. Blackburn was called in 1876 and received 4 members.

M. H. Uley was again called in 1886 and received 4 members.

E. B. Blackburn was pastor in 1887 and received 47 members.

J. N. Robinson was called in 1889 and received 6 members.

E. B. Blackburn was again pastor in 1890-91, receiving 5 members.

F. L. Atwood was pastor in 1892, and received 6 members.

E. B. Blackburn was again called in 1893, and is pastor at the present time. He has served as pastor for 16 years and received 241 members.

The church has sent out ten ministers, as follows: C. Wilson, M. Hammons, Wm. Hall, W. Champion, W. F. Robertson, Wm. Greston, J. J. Franks, L. P. Conger, B. F. Crow, F. M. Conger.

The Deacons since 1865 are: W. J. Bruce, R. L. Thurman, R. P. Gass, J. M. McChesney, R. M. Gilbert, W. T. Davis, F. M. Conger.

In conclusion we will say that we think this sermon a grand thing, and that there was great interest taken in our meeting and that there is good information to be gained in such meetings. We wish to extend our sincere thanks to the congregation both Saturday and Sunday, for their good attention.

E. L. Gass, C. Clark.

A Million Friends.

A friend in need is a friend indeed, and not less than one million people have found just such a friend in Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds.—If you have never used this Great Cough Medicine one trial will convince you that it has wonderful curative powers in all diseases of Throat, Chest and Lungs. Each bottle is guaranteed to do all that is claimed or money will be refunded. Trial bottles free at H. K. Woods' drug store. Large bottles 50c and $1.00.

New Railroad to be Built.

Cairo, Ill., June 4.—A railroad will be built between this city and Paducah, Ky., in the near future. Major M. Olcott and a party of engineers yesterday finished the surveying of a route on the south side of the Kentucky hills bordering the Ohio river, and tomorrow will start back on the north side to survey a second route. The present survey is 31 miles and a fraction in length, and extends from Paducah to East Cairo. This is a project which local capitalists have considered for several years, but the present venture is being backed by Paducah citizens. The road will be known as the Cairo & Paducah railroad. October 1 is the day named for completion.

Fredonia.

The annual school trustee and tax election was held last Saturday. The tax was defeated by seventeen majority. Dr. S. M. Leeper was elected trustee.

J. W. Sugar and wife, and Miss Nannie Gness, of Princeton, were in town Saturday and Sunday.

J. F. Hughes and wife, with several others, of Bethlehem neighborhood, attended church here last Sunday.

John K. Hendrick, candidate for Congress, of Smithland, was in Kelsey Saturday. He is a genuine Democrat and hopeful of the nomination.

A ladies missionary society was organized here last Saturday with ten members. Several others will join them.

There is a Republican candidate for office in this county who the leaders of the party think is well qualified for the office which he asks, but say, he has not voted with that party for some time, and hence they are afraid of him. If the Democrats had only voted for men who would have been true to their constituents, we would have had a great deal better times than we are having. When office holders betray the confidence reposed in them by those who elected them to their position, it is sure to bring about a revolution. It is the cause of the financial troubles of the nation now, and unfulfilled promises.

Frank Wyatt, of Salem, was in town on business two or three days last week.

Rev. J. N. McDonald, preached two good old fashioned gospel sermons last Sunday and Sunday night. They were full of the spirit and made good impressions. The gospel seems to have been in the back ground for some time in different sections of the country, slowly entertaining man, pleasing talks having taken the place of the true and unadulterated gospel.

HARRIET BEECHER STOWE.
June 14 is the eighty-second birthday of the famous author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." She was born at Litchfield, Conn., in 1811 and was the daughter and sixth child of Dr. Lyman Beecher and Abigail May.

A New Steel Company.

Birmingham, Ala., June 1.—At a meeting of the directors of the Bessemer Land and Investment Company, at Bessemer to-day H. F. de Bardeleben was elected President and plans were set on foot to organize immediately a company with a capital stock of $500,000 for the purpose of building and operating an extensive steel plant in this district. The entire stock of the steel company will be taken by the Bessemer Land and Investment Company, and in addition $500,000 of bonds will be issued, indorsed by that company.

Steel will be made by a new process whereby Alabama ore is utilized by netic bait and passing it over a magnetic separator. Experiments all the pure ore have been very successfully made. Successful consummation of this scheme will revolutionize iron making in Alabama. Mr. de Bardeleben, the chief promoter, is the pioneer, as well as the most successful iron make in Alabama.

THE SEPARATE COACH LAW.
Judge Barr Decides That is Unconstitutional and Void.

Owensboro, Ky., June 4.—(Special.)—In the United States Circuit Court, in the case of Anderson vs. the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company Judge Barr has just delivered his opinion overruling the demurrer of the defendant. The court holds the separate coach law an interference with interstate commerce, and on that account wholly unconstitutional and void as to all passengers.

It will be remembered that the suit was instituted to test the constitutionality of a law passed by the Kentucky legislature which requires separate coaches for negro passengers on Kentucky railroads. The law was declared unconstitutional. In order to test the law, Rev. Anderson with his wife boarded the train going from Henderson to Owensboro, and attempted to ride with the white passengers. They were ejected and then he filed suit.

"Little Julia."

Death, the dreaded foe of our race; invaded, on the morning of May 30th, 1894, the family circle of our esteemed friends, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rutter, of Hampton, Ky., and took from them their youngest child and daughter, the sweet darling "Julia." O! how heart-torturing the event, the sweet little prattler, the object of so many loves, and the fond hope of so many loving hearts, now in the cold embrace of death! "Little Julia" was three years and three months old—a lonely flower, just budding—the pride and joy of a large family, and numerous relatives and friends; but the precious flower, just opening on earth, was too lonely to bloom longer on this cold world, and God had it cease, longer "to cast its fragrance on the desert air," and come up to Him; leave a cold and unappreciative world, and bloom amid the fadeless flowers that grow in the fields of the Heavenly home on high. "Little Julia" died of that dread scourge of childhood—croup, she suffered not long, but hard. O, why was the sweet darling so ruthlessly taken from us? We can only answer: "Death always selects a shining mark." O, God, thy will be done; grant the bereaved the needed

A Hypnotizing Fraud.
Washington, June 2.—Extradition papers are being issued for the arrest of Dr. Gransby S. Howard, an English mesmerist who hypnotized Mrs. Jos. Specht, of Gunton Hall, Va., and swindled her out of $5,000 while the credulous woman was under his influence. He fled to Canada, and has been located in Montreal. He will be returned to the states as soon as his arrest can be effected.

While at Peekskill, N. Y., Mr. J. A. Scriven, a prominent manufacturer of New York City, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Such good results were obtained from its use that he sent back to the druggist from whom he had obtained it for two more bottles of the same remedy.

When you have a cough or cold give this preparation a trial and like Mr. Scriven you will want it when again in need of such a medicine. It is a remedy of great worth and merit. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Moore & Co.

It may do as much for you. Mr. Fred Miller, of Irving, Ill., writes that he had a severe kidney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back, and also that his bladder was affected. He tried many so-called kidney cures, but without any good result. About a year ago he began the use of Electric Bitters, and found relief at once. Electric Bitters especially adapted to cure all Liver and Kidney troubles, and often gives almost instant relief. One trial will prove our statement. Price only 50c. for large bottles. At H. K. As you know, Mr. Editor, or if you don't know then I tell you, Pinkneyville is in the world—but the world is sadly ignorant of the fact.

Too bad! think of it here, one of old Kentucky's towns in Livingston county, close to the banks of the winding Cumberland, the shipping point of the big valley of which Salem is the center, that has looked on poverty and longed for wealth, that saw the gun-boats and jered the red-coats as they passed up the river to demolish Ft. Donaldson, that has since lived a life of serenity and to day plods the even tenor of its way, that now boasts a store, a grocery, a school house, a post-office and a number of dwellings, which shelter some seventy-five souls, which throw up a white in lowly obscurity and is not ever known of in China, much less abroad. Tut, tut, tut, surely fate did not decree all this without the aid of those same pesky circumstances. Take out the "ifs" and P would have been a town of dimensions, a city of wealth. If certain parties had have sold land reasonably in the years long gone, men of influence would have settled here. If other parties had have granted the site, a boundary would have been located here. But there's the rub!

Pinkneyville has few loves and less hates. She extends a hand of sympathy to Dyeusburg in its stringency. Of course Grover and the party caused it all! She still has hopes for Grand Rivers. Down the river to Vicksburg and on to Smithland she sends greetings, and has a smile for Salem.

To the editor of the Press, the warmest thanks for the courtesy of its columns and the pleasure of seeing the short and simple annals of Pinkneyville recorded therein.

MORE AXON.

A Card of Thanks.

When July 1st comes, we will have been in business in Marion two years, and during that time our business relations with the people have been pleasant. We sincerely thank all who have given us their patronage, or a part thereof, assuring you that we appreciate it, whether great or small. We want to reduce stock for our July inventory, and to do this we are now offering some special bargains.

I have two little grand children who are teething this hot summer weather and are troubled with bowel complaint. I give them Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and it works like a charm. I earnestly recommend it for children with bowel troubles. I was myself taken with a severe attack of bloody flux, with cramps and pains in my stomach, one-third of a bottle of this remedy cured me. Within twenty-four hours I was out of bed and doing my house work.

LOCAL NEWS.

Short Talks on Advertising.

It is continuous effort that pays in advertising as in everything else. A business man doesn't keep his store open one day in the week, or one week in the month, or three months in the year. If he advertises that way that is the impression people will get. It is continuousness that has made each letter in the word "Royal" before the words "Baking Powder" worth over $1,000,000. The owner of Royal Baking Powder recently refused $13,000,000 for his business—a business built up and fostered by persistent advertising.

People are very forgetful. They have to think pretty hard to remember the vice-presidential candidate two campaigns back, and yet he was pretty well advertised at the time. It has been truly said that the time to advertise is all the time. In business there is no such thing as standing still. A business man must go forward or he will fall back. Even if you do just as much business this year as you did last, some other fellow is doing more business and he is getting ahead of you.

Each year's efforts should be to exceed last year's sales. The only sure way to do it is to advertise. Advertise in busy times because the iron must be struck while it is hot, and advertise in dull times to beat the iron. It can be done.

It is a safe rule to take advertising as you would medicine—when you need it. Advertising is the only medicine for sick business, but it must be of good quality, just as medicine must be good to do good.

It is poor policy to publish a misleading ad. The plainer and more truthful it is the better. Business men are coming to understand this, more and more, every day. The time has passed when "people like to be humbugged." Barnum is dead.

When you have decided what to say and how to say it, pick out the best paper you can find and use it.

Remember that the best paper is the cheapest and the place to put your advertising is in the place that people look for their news. Make the ad. newsy and they will pay.

There is nothing mysterious about advertising. It is an exact science. You are simply telling people where they can get certain needed things. That's all there is of it. If you can tell them about something they want or ought to want—if you have a good thing to offer—advertising will sell it. Most any sort of advertising is useful, but newspaper advertising is not only the best, but it costs less than any other kind—service considered. You can get more circulation—talk to more people—for less money in a newspaper, than in any other way.

Franklin James' barn, four miles west of Marion, was destroyed by fire Saturday. It is supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

Mr. John Farris, of Livingston county, came up Tuesday to meet his little blind daughter, who has been attending the school for the blind in Louisville.

Last evening Albert Cruce, the colored barber, and Ada Rice were united in marriage at the Methodist church, Rev. Lander officiating. A splendid supper was served to the many invited guests.

The colored conference of the Free Will Baptists, held at this place, adjourned Sunday night. Sunday the town was full of colored people, and services were held Sunday at the opera house.

Seventeen applicants were before the county board of examiners Friday and Saturday, for certificates to teach school. There has been no one in this county, so far, who has applied for a State certificate. The grades of those examined will be given next week.

Dr. D. Longnecker, practical optician will be in Marion, Ky., June 11 and 12, 1894, office at the Clement House. Dr. Longnecker will examine scientifically and accurately by the most approved method known to science, all who desire to have their eyes tested free of charge.

There seems to be considerable displeasure manifested in some of the school districts of this county because of the purchase, by the trustees, of certain maps and charts contracted to be paid for by district taxation. In Oak Grove district there is talk of a lawsuit growing out of it and other school matters.

The Mother Hubbard party Wednesday night was simply immense, and created no end of amusement among the lads and lasses. The masquerade assembled at Mrs. Cameron's and proceeded thence to the residence of Mr. R. B. Dorr, where a pleasant evening was spent.

A. F. Griffith received a telegram Tuesday afternoon announcing that his brother John had died in Henderson that morning and the news spread rapidly over town and the country. It proved, however, to be an error in the telegram. It was Mr. J. R. Griffith's little two-year old child that died Tuesday morning. The remains were brought here Wednesday and buried in the cemetery at Union Church.

Saturday afternoon, as she was returning home from town, Miss Alvin Gregory, daughter of Mr. R. B. Gregory, met with what came near being a serious accident. She was riding along when her horse became frightened at some object by the roadside and was unmanageable. The young lady was thrown to the ground and for awhile was unconscious. She recovered soon, however, and was able to mount the animal again and ride home.

Remember if you need glasses Dr. Longnecker guarantees to you a perfect and satisfactory fit. He makes a specialty of complicated and difficult diseases, particularly those of the different forms of astigmatism. It will cost you nothing. If you have been unable to secure perfect vision elsewhere, it will certainly be of great benefit to you to consult Dr. Longnecker, and have him make a thorough examination of your eyes.

The district presidents of the first district will visit the following Sunday schools. The superintendents will please announce the appointments: Shady Grove third Sunday in June 9 o'clock a. m.; Sugar Grove third Sunday 3 o'clock p. m.; Midway fourth Sunday in June 9 o'clock a. m.; Crayneville fourth Sunday at 3 o'clock p. m.

H. S. WHEELER, J. B. McNEELY.

Mr. H. Kerr Wardell and wife, who were the guests of Col. A. H. Cardin a few years ago, will sail for their home, Liverpool, on the 20. Mr. W. is a member of one of the largest tobacco importing houses in Europe, and his business to this country was that of soliciting consignments. He was successful beyond expectations, and hereafter a very large per cent. of the exports from this section will be consigned to his house.

Musical Entertainment.

Mrs. Thomas' musical entertainment will be held at the Opera House on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, June 20 and 21. Mrs. Thomas' ability in getting up such entertainments is well known and needs no recommendation. She has endeavored to make this better, if possible, than any previous attempt. Every lover of good music should attend both meetings. Music on all the instruments. General admission 15 cents. Reserved seats 25c.

Among the Churches.

Sunday there were services at the Presbyterian and Methodist churches. The doors of each were opened by the pastors. Those who joined the Presbyterian church are: Dr. W. J. DeLoe, Dr. J. H. Orme, Wm. Clement, Caswell Bennett, Jr., J. W. Goodloe and wife, Perry D. Maxwell, Charles Elder, Misses Kittie Woods, Jennie and Cora Potter.

The committee of Finance, and the committee of Arrangements of the Fife meeting, as well as the pastor of each church in town, request us, for them, to thank Mr. and Mrs. John D. Boaz for the use of the opera house for the meeting. The doors of the splendid hall were thrown open without money and without price, a very generous act on the part of the owners and the public appreciated it.

Those who joined the Methodist church are: W. H. Copher, J. N. Thomas, D. B. Moore, S. D. Hodge, C. S. Nunn, O. M. James, Nathan Doss, Roy Gilbert, Ed. Olive, Mrs. Anna Wallingford, A. C. Moore and wife and Misses Ray Woods, Annie Wilson, Lucy Thomas, Macy Coffield, Lucy Walker and Kittie Haynes.

The Baptist people of Repton are erecting a new church at that place, and will soon have it ready for use. It will be a neat frame building. Rev. W. R. Gibbs will be made pastor of the new church.

Rev. Reed Lamb preached to a large congregation at the C. P. church Monday evening. Rev. Lamb is a native of this county, but for several years he has had charge of churches in Indiana and Pennsylvania.

The ladies have organized an afternoon prayer meeting, held every Wednesday afternoon at the C. P. church.

Sunday afternoon at 5:30 a Christian Endeavor Society will be organized at the C. P. church.

Rev. W. H. Miley will preach at Post Oak next Sunday afternoon.

The Presbyterian church at this place will shortly elect two elders.

County Sunday School Convention Saturday, July 7, at Midway.

Masonic Ceremonies.

A thousand people witnessed the Masonic ceremonies at the graves of the late Rev. R. P. Mitchell and Dr. Tolley at Hopewell church Sunday. The services were participated in by Marion and Carversville Lodges, Mr. W. D. Cannon officiating for Marion and Mr. A. J. Bebout for Carversville. When the late brothers were buried, the weather was too inclement for the accustomed burial ceremonies, and the lodges postponed those rites until Sunday.

Twenty-four members of Marion lodge were present, and they are praising a number of the good citizens of Lola for the hospitality extended them about the noon hour.

Thrown by a Bicycle.

Monday evening as a Press reporter was walking along the road in the Southern suburbs of town, a bicycle rider wheeled up behind him at no slow rate of speed. It was done so quickly we don't just know how it happened. Whether the young man was trying to keep from running over the newspaper man, or just simply wanted to make a record for himself, is unknown to us. Anyhow, in less than no time the young bicyclist and his wheel had exchanged positions and he was in the dust, with his face downward, and his heels toward the sky, was the unfortunate wheelman, and on top of him lay the unruly vehicle. "Don't give me away about this," he said, as he came out from under the machine, dusty and bruised. "If this had happened before Bro. Fife's meeting you might have heard something," and he limped off toward town, leading his bicycle.

People's Party Call.

There will be a meeting of the People's party at the court house in Marion on county court day in June. A full attendance is earnestly requested. The editor of the Kentucky Populist will be with us. We invite all who endorse our platform of principles to join with us. There is gathered around the capital of this nation a gang of pirates, who thundered successfully at the doors until they have driven this government into the most preposterous acts of bad faith and legalized robbery that ever oppressed a free nation since the dawn of history. God in heaven today hears the cry of earth's many toilers, as he heard the bitter cry that arose from the slave fields of Egypt, and he who smote the crown and pride of Egypt will smite the modern Pharaohs who grind the faces of the poor. So everybody come.

W. E. Flannery, Sec'y.

Dixon-Marion.

The county seat of Webster county sent a representative to the county seat of Crittenden county Monday, and now Crittenden has one lovely young lady less and Webster one handsome bride more, all of which means that Mr. R. C. Hardwick a popular druggist, of Dixon, and Miss Maude Taylor, of this place, were happily married Monday morning at 8 o'clock at the residence of the bride's father Mr. C. A. P. Taylor, Rev. T. C. Carter officiating. Only a few intimate friends of the family knew of the approaching nuptial of Miss Maude before Monday, and only a few witnessed the union of the happy hearts. Miss Taylor was very popular with her large circle of acquaintances in Marion. Immediately after the ceremony the groom and his bride left on their overland journey from Marion to Dixon taking the best wishes of the people of Marion for their future.

To Take a Trip.

Friday Wm. Dobbs, a young man about 19, who lived with his father near Lola, was delivered to the jailer at this place for safe keeping until the courts can adjudicate some little matters of difference between him and the laws of the Commonwealth. On the 31st of May some one entered the house of Mrs. Sarah Flannery of this county and took from a trunk $6.00 in cold cash, a gold watch and a gold finger ring. Many things associated Mr. Dobbs with the transaction, and when arrested he had on his person the missing watch and $5.90 in money; the ring could not be found. He will be on hand at circuit court and is pretty sure to wind up with a trip to Eddyville.

INSANE.

A Promising Young Man Mentally Deranged.

Yesterday afternoon a jury was summoned before Judge Moore to inquire into the condition of Joseph Dean's mind. With one exception, all readily agreed that he was insane.

Another jury was summoned, and without hesitation returned a verdict to the effect that the young man was insane, and he will be taken to the Western Kentucky Insane Asylum today.

Jos. Dean is in his teens and is a son of Dr. T. L. Dean, formerly of this county, but now of Texas; he resides with his uncle, Mr. A. Dean, a well known citizen of the county.

Joe was a promising boy; he was a hard student and was not only well advanced in his studies, but exceedingly well read for one of his years.

A young man of the best habits, full of zeal to do good, ambitious and industrious, no young man in the county ever apparently had a brighter future.

Several months ago, while in college at Richmond, Ky., the derangement was first observed, and he came home and it was hoped he would outgrow it, and nothing wrong was observed until Tuesday night, when he left home abruptly and walked to town six miles, through the rain and mud.

When he reached here he happened to fall into the hands of friends and was taken care of. His condition is a sad, sad thing, and a severe blow to his relatives, who are of the best people of the county.

FIFTY YEARS A MILL "GIRL."

A Massachusetts Woman's Lengthy Experience as a Weaver.

Massachusetts, Mass., began her fifty-first year as a weaver. When 13 years of age she began to earn her own living in a mill at Woodstock, Maine, where she was born, and from that day to this has worked in various New England mills as a weaver. As is well known, a mill worker's life is not all "fall beer and skittles," but in time long past it was infinitely worse. When Miss Davis first went to work in Dedham half a century ago, she and her fellow weavers were only paid once in three months, counting themselves lucky if they averaged $2.50 a week. The girls did not pay their own board, pay for which was deducted from their earnings by the boarding mistress in the mill counting room. The boarding-houses were owned by the corporations and the food was poor in quality and scarce in quantity. The seas bill of fare was presented the year round—fried potatoes, doughnuts and biscuits for breakfast, with coffee sweetened with molasses; tough meat and potatoes for dinner, and a repetition of local fast for the evening meal. One day in each week bread and milk was all they had for dinner. No such thing as a chair was ever seen in a corporation boarding-house, benches doing duty instead. Seats were also unheard of there. At 10 o'clock at night all lights were supposed to be out and everybody in bed. A warning bell rang nightly at 9:45, and fifteen minutes later the "master of the house," as he was then known, made a tour to see that all lights were out. Of recreation these white slaves had little or none; indeed, after working fourteen hours a day they were not exactly in the humor for anything of the kind. Singing-school was about the only amusement they knew, except once a year when "the circus" came to town. This was an event to which neither the millworkers nor the tradesmen looked forward with any marked degree of satisfaction. The circus took too much money out of town.

HE WAS COMFORTABLE.

Negro Did Not Object to Having the Hair Shaved from His Head.

No one who visits the Louisville custom house during the terms of the federal court will deny that the mountaineers are peculiar people. They are hardy, healthy, and used to all sorts of hardships. In passing through the custom house, however, I came across a negro mountaineer. Whether he was born in the mountains I did not learn, but he had lived in that part of Kentucky for so long that he was of them truly. It was in the afternoon of one of the cold days during the first part of the week. He was in a peculiar position when I saw him and I tried to help him. He had become cold, probably from wandering around the streets, and had gone into the custom house and lain down by one of the heaters. His hat was off and his pillow was the hot pipes of the heater.

I would not have noticed him particularly had not the air been charged with an odor that smelled very much like burning hair. I looked at the negro closely. His bushy head was resting against the hot pipes and his hair was scorching. He was sleeping profoundly, unconscious, I suppose, even that he was in a big city. The perspiration was streaming down his face, and trickled off his nose and lips as he moved them with loud guttural snorers. I touched my gloved hand to the heater. It was so hot I jerked it away quickly. I asked the man until he was fairly awake and told him his head was almost on fire.

"Oh, oh, dat ain't hot; it's jis comfortable," and his head rested back against the pipes, and he was sleeping again.

The Bristol Toll.

A curious but rather inconvenient custom of exacting toll from newly married couples appears to survive at Widen, in England. The other day a marriage took place in the Congregational chapel, and only when the pair emerging from the building they found their way to their waiting car barred by a number of women, who had tied their aprons together and stretched them across the gate. When these were satisfied with a donor, and the cab was gained, progress was again barred by a couple of carriers, who had drawn their teams across the road, and who also exacted toll. Sometimes, it appears, several cords are drawn across the road at intervals on the line of route, and the trossels on the bridegroom's purse are thus considerable.

Tricks of Desert Coyotes.

Coyotes show a strength of understanding that is sometimes alarming. Desert prospectors, like Mr. Riley, who have been often on the verge of death, tell us that when parties are lost in the wilds, the coyotes persistently follow, and only when they are leading for water will these miserable creatures relinquish pursuit. The Indians of Palm Springs have a strong belief in the cleverness of coyotes, and have informed me in all seriousness that coyotes are known to steal large watermelons and roll them miles away from where the theft was committed. It is certain that coyotes, on grape hunting, only select the ripest and ripest bunches, and they do this sagacity when choosing

ONE OF MR. RILEY'S STORIES

An Anecdote by the Honorable Peter to Show the Power of Music.

The Honorable Peter Riley, has a new story regarding the influence of music. He said recently to a reporter in his forthright manner, "Strange what an influence music has upon a man. Especially the kind that steals upon his ear in accents sweet and low. Now, there's Bill Peasley, for instance. He wasn't much of a singer, yet he caused quite a disturbance by singing an old gospel hymn. Right across from his house is a grocery store. One day last July a man placed a ladder against the grocery store and tried to put up a sign nearly twenty feet long over the window. There was an element of intense interest in this proceeding to thirty men who gathered around the ladder and watched the man as he stood upon his precarious perch. Pretty soon Bill Peasley came along. He joined the group, putting his hands behind his back, and began to sing. He began to sing, and the man on the ladder began to whistle. The sign was so soft and persuasive that the man next to Bill took it up and began whistling. Then another joined in and still another until the whole group were whistling. By this time the man on the ladder had become interested. He began to whistle, but no sound came from his lips. His attention was so taken up by the sign that he couldn't form his lips right. It is a difficult job to whistle and put up a sign at the same time. He had been struggling with the sign and time for several minutes, and was standing on one foot on the ladder trying to hang one end of the sign on a nail. The situation was further complicated by his effort to come in with his bass whistle at the proper time, when his foot slipped and down he came, with the ladder and sign over him. That was the effect of one of the sweetest hymns in modern music."

FEARED HIS WIFE THE MOST.

The Juror Knew His Spouse and Therefore Disobeyed the Court.

On one occasion Judge Andrew Ellison was trying an important case at Macon City and decided to rush it through in order to make way for another case coming up next morning. The court instructed the jury and court officials to return after supper that night, as it was intended to hold a night session. At 7 o'clock all the officers, numerous witnesses and the jury, with one exception, were promptly on hand. Of course nothing could be done without the absent juror. The minutes ran into hours and still the prodigal didn't return. At a late hour court adjourned without having accomplished anything. Next morning sharp at 9 o'clock the twelve jurymen were in the box. His honor scanned the crowd and asked for the juror. He was pointed out and the court ordered him to stand up.

"Mr. —," said the judge, addressing the delinquent, "didn't you understand the order of the court last night requiring the jury to be on hand after supper?"

"Yes, your honor," said the juror, explaining, "but you see I live quite a ways out of town and my wife gave me an order prior to the court's order, and her order was that I shouldn't stay in town over night. I considered the matter and concluded it was safer to risk your honor's displeasure than her's, because," he added earnestly, "I know her."

The court looked solemn a moment, as if weighing some mighty problem, then a smile started across his face, and he said to the officers and spectators, broke out in tumultuous laughter. The juror was forgiven; there were many there who could, perhaps, appreciate his position.

NOT THE BEST.

The Old Man Stuck to the Colors Even in the Face of Beauty.

The adage concerning the folly of disputing about questions of personal taste is well supported by an anecdote related by Colonel T. A. Dodge. He says:

"Many years ago, in Richmond, I was standing with a friend in his doorway, while he gave some instructions to a colored servant, there happened to pass one of the beauties of the city. We both took off our hats, courtesy in our attitudes, admiration in our hearts."

"Isn't she a beauty?" said I.

"Isn't she a beauty?" he echoed.

"Just isn't she, Uncle Ned?" he added, turning to the old servant.

"Miss Ellen's a mighty fine leddy, responded Uncle Ned in a deferential, but somewhat hostile tone.

"Why, what do you mean, Uncle Ned?" insisted my friend, rather nettled and curious withal at the old man's manner.

"Well, Miss Tom, said the old man, 'to tell de honest' truth, we niggers don't tink de white leddies is no handsome as de black ones.'"

Salt in the United States.

There were 11,435,487 barrels of salt produced in the United States in the year 1893, as against 11,785,734 barrels in 1892—a falling off of 350,247 barrels. Each barrel weighed 280 pounds, making a total of 3,201,936,360 pounds. In addition to this there were imported 391,990,537 pounds, so that this country contributed the effects of the enormous quantities of sugar used by making way for 3,593,926,897 pounds or about 1,796,963 tons of salt.

An Effective Sermon.

Somebody complimented Sidney Smith on a charity sermon he had preached, to which the divine replied: "I believe it was effective, for old Lady Cook borrowed a sovereign of a stranger in the pew to get a plate."

SOME FISH.

They Came Piling in so Fast That They Nearly Sank the Sloop.

"It is well worth a trip to the North Carolina coast," said Colonel Keogh, of that state, "to see the operations of one of the big seines in the waters along Albemarle or Pamlico sounds. Some of these big seines are fully two miles long, and so heavy that they are drawn ashore by steam power. And what enormous takes are frequently made—barrels of herring at a single haul! Yet I don't know of but one man who has made much money in the business. The very abundance of the fish makes them cheap, and railroad facilities in that section are limited."

"Abundant as the fishy tribe is in the North Carolina waters," said Colonel Walter R. Evans, of Florida, who had been listening to Colonel Keogh, "it is not till you get down into my country that you find fish in multitudinous quantities, so to speak. In the Indian river, particularly, they are far too thick for the fisherman, and often embarrass him with their redundancy."

"I shall never forget one experience I had down there. It was a dark night and a party of us were on the river in a good-sized sloop after big fish. We had not been long anchored when the light in our boat began to attract schools of mullet, and into that craft they jumped by the hundreds. Yes, thousands. Well, we stood it for awhile, till the burden got too heavy, and we felt the boat beginning to sink. Then hurriedly blowing out the lights and pulling anchor we made for the shore. I am positive if we had let these fish keep on piling into us they would have carried all hands down to a watery grave. As it was made a narrow escape."

VACCINATION AND PRAYER.

A Little Tot Who Had Full Faith in a Combination of the Two.

Here is a little story, the incident occurring during a period when the town of Winsted, Conn., had a small-pox scare. It happened when things were at the worst, and it occurred in the household of Benjamin Richards, near the town of Winsted, Conn. Richards has a little daughter, and she took it to heart quite forcibly because the churches were all closed, and so she dressed herself in some of her mother's clothes. One Sunday morning, and perching herself upon the stairs, proceeded to hold church services. The little tot was choir and soprano and preacher all in one. After calling upon Mrs. Howe to sing, she personated a well-known vocalist and sang and then made a little preaching and then made a prayer. The prayer was short and was as follows:

"O, Lord, make the small-pox go away. Don't let the small-pox get my papa or my mamma nor me nor any of us. O, Lord, we've all been vaccinated and it's working be-a-ut-i-f-u-l-ly on all of us. Amen."

We are pleased to state that the prayer was answered and that the little tot and all of her family came through the ordeal in good order.

A WARM SEAT.

The Young Lady Was Not While Every One Else Was Cool.

In a party of strangers being taken through the Cholla works, near Virginia, Nevada, was a girl, when preparations were made to go down the incline, was assigned to the lower seat in the "griffe." After the griffe started the girl slipped down at the feet of her companions and found a seat on something, the nature of which she did not stop to investigate. A short way down the incline, she remarked that she was getting warm. Further on she repeated the observation, and her companions remarked that they had not noticed it, while the miner who had the party in charge assured her that the incline was supposed to be cool. She continued to call attention to the heat, however, and at the station she scrambled out of the griffe, exclaiming: "Where's that? I was hot in there." The miner was mystified, but casually looking at where she had sat, the light dawned upon him, and he electrified the entire party by dryly remarking: "No wonder you were warm; you were sitting on that gentleman's lantern."

Took a Sitting Men With Her.

An Atlanta paper is credited with having originated this story: "An old lady, living in Jackson county, who was possessed of a sitting hen, just hatching at the time, when she had occasion to go to Jefferson on urgent business, and having no one to leave in charge at home, put the pipped eggs and hen in a box of hay and took them along with her on the train. Before she reached her destination the eggs all hatched, and she returned home next day with a fine brood of young chickens, which may boast of the distinction of having been hatched on a passenger train running at full speed."

A Birth and Death Coincidence.

John Sobieski, the king of Poland, who immortalized his name by 'delivering Vienna from the Turks,' was born June 17, 1629, and died on June 17, 1686, being exactly 67 years old. There are two other queer coincidences in connection with Sobieski's life: He was elected to the throne on June 17, and there were terrible tempests all over Europe on the day of his birth and also on the day of his death.

With a Single Bullet.

Three rabbits were recently killed with one bullet. The first rabbit, fifty yards away, was shot with a 300-bore Martini rifle through the shoulder; the second, about two yards further, through the neck; and the third, about three yards from the second, through the head. Two were sold-grown, and the third nearly so.

AS IN YOUTH

Ayer's Hair Vigor CORDIALLY INDORSED.

RESTORES Natural Growth of the HAIR. Dressings FAIL.

"I can cordially indorse Ayer's Hair Vigor, as one of the best preparations for the hair. When I began using Ayer's Hair Vigor, all the front part of my head—about half of it—was bald. The use of only two bottles restored a natural growth, which still continues as in my youth. I tried several other dressings, but they all failed. Ayer's Hair Vigor is the best."—Mrs. J. C. AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

PREPARED BY Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., LOWELL, MASS.

Persons who sympathize with the afflicted will rejoice with D. E. Carr, of 1235 Harris street Kansas City. He is an old sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism, but has not heretofore been troubled in this climate. Last winter he went into Wisconsin, and in consequence has had another attack.

"It came upon me again very acute and severe," he said. "My joints swelling and became inflamed; sore to touch or almost to look at. Upon the urgent request of my mother-in-law I tried Chamberlain's Pain Balm to reduce the swelling and ease and pain and to my agreeable surprise, it did both. I have used three fifty-cent bottles and believe it to be the finest thing for rheumatism, pains and swelling extant. For sale by Moore & Orme."

AYER'S THE ONLY Sarsaparilla ADMITTED

READ RULE XV.

"Articles that are in any way dangerous or offensive, also patent medicines, not trunks, and empirical preparations, whose ingredients are concealed, will not be admitted to the Exposition."

Why was Ayer's Sarsaparilla admitted? Because it is a patent medicine, not a nostrum, nor a secret preparation, not dangerous, not an experiment, and because it is a family medicine should be.
